BEN HUR TEMPLE,
AUSTIN, TEXAS

*"There are hermit souls who live withdrawn in the place of their self-conceit,
There are souls, like stars, that dwell apart in a fellow-less firmament,
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths where highways never ran,
But let me live by the side of the road, and be a friend of man.*

*Let me live in a house by the side of the road, where the race of man goes by,
The men who are good, the men who are bad, as good and as bad as I,
I would not sit in the scorner's seat, nor hurl the cynic's ban,
Let me live in a house by the side of the road, and be a friend of man.*

*I see from my house by the side of the road, by the side of the highway of life,
The men who press on with the ardor of hope, the men who are faint with the strife,
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears,
both part of an infinite plan;
Let me live in a house by the side of the road, and be a friend of man.*

*Let me live in a house by the side of the road, where the race of men go by,
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong, wise, foolish—and so am I, Then why should I sit in the scorner's seat, or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in a house by the side of the road. and be a friend of man."*

"In Deo fiducia nostra."

THE first and greatest of the ancient landmarks of Masonry and the footing course of the great, broad foundation of Masonry is the belief in God; not in a God of fire, wood, stone or precious metals, but a living God who understands and appreciates the powers, passions and weaknesses with which He has endowed His children.

Masonry, which is founded on a belief in God, offers to the conscientious student the incentive and opportunity to study and master His laws; hence it had to follow that Masons, of one branch or another, were the first to study conscientiously and understandingly, not only God's Holy Bible, but His Great universal book, written in a language we all can understand—the Book of Nature.

Geometry, Astronomy and all the branches of pure mathematics were first studied and applied by our ancient Masonic brethren, and they were the first to apply them to Architecture and other kindred sciences and arts.

This careful study of God's laws has had the effect of placing Masons in the leadership in the making of history throughout the centuries. The greatest scientists, musicians, orators, soldiers and statesmen of all times have knocked at the outer door of Masonry; to that door have come the best, the truest and noblest, not only in our land, but in all lands.

Masons have been the principal actors in the most stupendous of world dramas. Our own country, the grandest and most glorious of all countries that have ever existed, was literally conceived and brought into being by a band of Masons. Ascertain how many signers of the Declaration of Independence were Masons, and you will gain some idea of how closely Masonry is connected with the birth of our country.

Our country has witnessed the most marvelous growth in Masonry of all ages, for the simple reason that Masons are and have been always missionaries of Civil and Religious Liberty. This country is the very hot-bed of Liberty, and Masonry and Liberty flourish in the same soil. The motto on our coins, "In God we trust," is also the motto of Masonry.

The greatest Masonic writer who ever lived has said: "Those who are Masons after us shall see, if our eyes do not behold it, the full glory of the work so well laid. The leaves fall upon the root, but the trees continue to grow. The tree of Free-masonry continues its growth, fed by the living springs of Truth. The croak of clerical ravens and the chattering of tonsured jays predict decay for it, but the ages will mark the period of its growth, as the years with concentric rings do those of the oak. The lightnings of excommunication will fail to shatter its branches; no storm of persecution can uproot it, and lay it prostrate. Free-masonry is of God as truth is; the powers of darkness cannot prevail against it; and beneath its branches the world shall at last have peace."
